

Welcome

"This Peking and Cantonese restaurant's name hints at a culinary experience that may well enthuse your senses - and it's certainly hard not to feel contented after a visit. Yumla... focuses on providing a wide range of special menus to suit diverse dining needs. They include a Friday night buffet as well as generously portioned à la carte dishes with a seafood emphasis. Within the sophisticated, muted interiors, fast-moving staff flit between spacious private booths and free-standing tables. The food may come quickly, but there's no sacrifice in flavour. Spare ribs shine in a sticky, lemony coating, with the meat crunchy and well seasoned. Rice paper prawns are moist and delicate, accompanied by a spicy sweet dipping sauce. A sizzling platter of mixed seafood with ginger and spring onions takes two members of staff to transfer it to the table, but such theatre is justified for a dish weighed down with scallops (plump and juicy), king prawns and squid - all interspersed with wafer-thin slices of ginger. A bird's nest of crispy shredded chicken in a hot and sweet sauce presents a delicious variation on the Chinese classic, while the menu is also laden with Thai-influenced dishes."
